Blairmore's Light System Had Surplus in March

The regular meeting of the Blairmore town council last night was attended by Mayor Beebe and Councillors McVey, Lagace and Dutil.
The minutes of previous regular meeting were approved and several communications were received.

J. E. Gills declined to accept the task of collecting Blairmore's tax in 1919.

The account of the West Canadian Collieries for some $50 for repairs effected to water main and connections and the company's offices in 1917 was again referred to the water and light committee. In this connection the Company stated that they had been authorized to do the work by Mr. A. McLeod, the then chief of police, with the understanding that he would owe the account when presented, as he (Mr.
McLeod) could not secure a man for such work.

The West Canadian Collieries were asked by the mayor for twenty-four-hour electric service, and replied that they could not grant a day current until they had received a guarantee that the service main was in proper condition.

The Department of Municipal Affairs drew the attention of the council to the new Supplementary Tax, requiring municipalities to add to and collect from the assessment one mill on the dollar for provincial purposes.

The following accounts, totalling $204.10, were passed for payment, subject to the order of the various committees: A. Morency $11.20, R. Swallowood $5.25, Alberta Government, Telephones $9.00, Northern Electric Company, Calgary, $13.20, Blairmore Enterprises $75.00, Blair-more Hardware Co. $20.85, Peto Travico $43.00, and peti-cash accounts $20.00.

Complaints were made of cattle and goats roaming the town to the annoyance of citizens.

The Works and Property Committee informed the council that steps were being taken to grade certain parts of Victoria Street.

Report of the light service for the month of March showed a surplus of about $150.00, including the street lighting.

Euclide Brouillard Commits Suicide

The report of a suicide stirred up the people of Frank on Saturday afternoon last. Investigation revealed that the man had been in the town for some time, and that he had been in the habit of quitting work after but a few hours and strolling around in a semi-demented state of mind.

About ten days ago he drew his first pay, and spent very little time at work since. On Saturday, however he went to work, but quit in the afternoon about three to return to the workman's train, which occupied a siding just west of the slide. Reaching there, it appears he entered one of the cars, and removing a razor from his box stepped outside, and after some little planning drew the blade across his throat, literally severing everything from ear to ear. He immediately noticed a man in sight of him and started to dash away. Rushing about three car lengths he fell to the ground, and laid for about a half minute. Hearing footsteps nearing him, he again made a dash. This time, being very much weakened, he dropped after going but a few yards, his severed throat
coming in contact with the edge of a board. Here he was approached by his pursuer, and later by Roadmaster Paton and Agent Murray, and the latter immediately returned to the station to summon medical assistance and the police. Dr. Ross, of Coleman,

Gunner Harry C. Merrifield To Get Military Medal

Word has been received from France, stating that Gunner Harry C. Merrifield has been recommended for the Military Medal for going through a heavy shell-fire to headquarters for a director to replace one broken. Gunner Merrifield is in his 18th year and has seen nearly two years' service. Before enlisting he was a pupil in the Blairmore school. His father, Gunner H. D. Merrifield, is at present lying very ill at a base hospital in France.

been awarded the Distinguished himself and his comrades out, but time he cut his way out, saving the

was on the scene in a few minutes,
but too late, as the spark of life had fled. Coroner Pinkney and members of the provincial police were soon on the scene, and after examining the body took statements from the witnesses, and arranged for the disposal of the remains, which were taken to Coleman in charge of Undertaker Davies. A sum of money, amounting to $16.50, was found in one of his pockets, while letters in his luggage established his identity and the probable whereabouts of his next-of-kin.

Brouillard was about twenty-three years of age and single. He came from the province of Quebec, and it is thought that the fear of having to do military service drove him to suicide.

The body is still being held at Coleman, awaiting instructions
from his relatives in Quebec.

Spy Centre Of All Europe

Zurich Is Always Buzzing With War Intrigues by Hun Plotters

Zurich is the spy centre of the world—the hub from which radiates the German news of the espionage. Nothing the Swiss can do can prevent it remaining so.

When I was in Stockholm eighteen months ago that place was buzzing with international intrigue. There was a spy behind every column in every hotel. The first twelve in the Tsingtau orchestra probably was in the pay of the Germans. There one saw strange signs of myself in the smoking room of the Grand hotel accidentally ran into a Russian who a few days before had been pointed out to me as one of the big guns of Petrograd, in full confab with a man in civilian clothes whom I recognized as a military attaché of the German embassy in Sweden.

The spy capital of the world has changed since then. Zurich is it.

No neutral country, anywhere has more consistently tried to keep down spying inside its borders than Switzerland. She has one of the strongest counter-espionage organizations of any country in the world. Tirelessly she labors night and day to prevent or punish spying. But, of course, it is a hopeless task. Spying is no good if he looks like a spy. Only the little fellows get caught.

But there are some very clever spies. An American official told me he saw a German naval officer in Paris recently. He immediately reported his presence to the French authorities. The American had known the man in Germany, and there could be no mistake. He was able to give the secret service such a detailed description that they recognized who the spy was.

The call was sent out all over France yet the spy got away.

Shortly afterwards in Zurich, the American met the officer-spy in the Bahnhofstrasse. The German laughed.

"Thought you had me in Paris, didn't you?" he said, not at all in humor.

"Pretty slick!" the American commented.

The German chuckled. "I had dinner at Ciro's three tables from you that very night. And you were talking about me. There was so-and-so, his wife and our old friend, Colonel Whitsamane, with you."

"Set you got away, eh?"

"Sure, and I'm coming back to Paris next week. You might tip them off as to I'll furnish them with something to do and won't harm me any. So long."

The German spy, however, is no better than the secret agents of France, England or America as to work of the United States service—to go no further—simply proved. Perhaps he is not so good even. He is legion and what he lacks in quality he makes up in quantity.

Life in Switzerland since the war, is certainly strange. In the finest hotel in Berne is living the wife of an American diplomat. In the same hotel lives the wife of a German baron, he being one of the military attaches of the German embassy. The two women were classmates in an American college—the very best of friends. Now these two American girls pass each other in the halls of the hotel without even nodding. It seems silly. Yet were they to speak tongues would begin to wag at once. To meet at the home of a mutual friend would be more disastrous still. They must be as strangers.

It is all part of the surcharged and tensioned atmosphere in Zurich. The spies are everywhere; that espionage and counter espionage, traitors and dealers in treachery are all there, there can be not the slightest doubt.

British Food Laws Have Teeth

Heavy Fines Incurred by Seemingly Small Infractions

If you care to spend about $900 in fines and rest three months in an English jail, all you have to do is violate some of Great Britain's stringent food laws.

Should you want to be as kind as possible, the English, by aiding the secretary of a training camp, disabled soldiers to get more than his allowance of sugar, then part with the first $100. The kind victor, after due process of law in an English court, paid just that much for his crime.

The next thing you have to do to start your three months' jail in it to take several sleek and fine-looking pigs and feed them on a ration of bread and meat, as their proud possessor, Frederick Moore of Osenhop, did. Three months in jail for a pig.

Using bread otherwise than for human food. If you don't care to lose another $10 in fines you should remember the sworn statutes of the amounts of sugar required by individuals for preserving fruits. Should your desire be greater than that required by the fruits you want to preserve, then pay another $10, like the Rev. John Hopkins, of Bradford, who demanded thirty-six pounds of sugar to preserve plums from four plum trees in his orchard.

The remainder of the $900 you can surrender to British courts of justice by committing the following crimes:

Serve milk and bread as breakfast for your pet dogs, $25.

Throw just three pieces of bread in a garbage can and let the English police find them there, $25. Keep a grocery store at Cardiff, Wales, and say to your customer, "I will not sell you bread unless you buy a larger quantity of goods," and then hand him back his ration card, $25.

Sell a pound of mutton for one cent more than the price prescribed by the British ministry of food, $250. Be a prominent resident of Sunderland, England, and obtain a large quantity of sugar than necessary to enter your friends at tea, $125. Offer a higher price for slaughtered hogs than that prescribed by law, $125.

And, finally, if you want to retain your job, the enterprising baker in Red Lion street, London, who to meet his customers' demand, sold bread baked just a few hours before. Fifty dollars fine. Charge selling bread for more than the price set for twelve hours, as required by the bread law in England.

The Declining Dollar

A Poor Relation Despised by the Rest of the Family Circle

While every other commodity rises in price, the once almighty dollar sinks lower and lower in value and prestige. It was in a state of decline for some years before the outbreak of the war, but since then it has gone rapidly from bad to worse. It is no longer a medium for riches. Instead of thinking of wealth in terms of dollars, people think of houses, or something else good to eat. Once monarch of all it surveyed, the dollar is now in its poverty condemned to match the humble potato, the lowly cabbage, the meek turnip, the unassuming carrot and other exiles of the vegetable kingdom which were once at its beck and are rioting in the presence of prosperity. It shrinks in the presence of beef, lamb, mutton, and veal, and it almost flees from the presence of a king.

The Canadian Labor Gazette tells us that eight years ago a butcher thought so much of dollar that he would give for it seven pounds of sirloin steak, or ten pounds of veal, or nine pounds of mutton, or eight or nine-half pounds of fresh pork, or seven pounds of bacon. Contrast this with the value which he puts upon a dollar today, and behold how the mighty dollar has fallen.

Eight years ago the grocer offered seven pounds of new cheese, or forty pounds of family flour, or thirty pounds of rolled oats, or forty pounds of granulated sugar, or eight pecks of potatoes, or nearly five pounds of dairy butter for a dollar. The housewife doesn't need a basket today to carry the equivalent of a dollar in groceries. She could manage it in her work bag.

The poor dollar is not only growing poorer every month, but is being roundly abused by a school of economists. They tell us it is one of the principal causes of the high cost of living because it is too common.

They contend that the flood of gold before the war and the expansion of paper currency, produced by war, has caused the dollar to lose its value. Some day a dollar may be a dollar again, and recover its authority and respect, but it is apparently doomed to depression for some years to come—a poor relation despised by the rest of the family circle.

One Solution

Riches in Russian Mines May Be Utilized by Enemy

Germany is not only grabbing the wheat, oats, rye and barley lands of Russia, but her armies are taking the mines of the western front, but she has an eye on the mineral wealth of the conquered territory.

In mineral wealth Russia is one of the most richly endowed countries in Europe. Gold, silver, platinum, iron, copper, zinc, coal, oil, and the principal minerals worked. The only regions where coal and iron in the Donetz basin, in Poland, and in Siberia. The largest mines in the Donetz basin, in Poland, and in Siberia. The largest mines in the Donetz basin, in Poland, and in Siberia.

The year before the war Russia produced a little less than 6,000,000 tons of coal. Of this amount about 4,000,000 tons came from South Russian districts. Before the war the coal output was extraordinary progress in the production of iron and steel in every form, and in 1913 the output was 1,000,000 tons. The best coal (partly anthracite) is obtained in the mines in Poland and in South Russia, where the coal is produced about nine-tenths of the output. Expresses Relief That Devastation in Battle Is Not on German Soil

The Volks Zeitung of Cologne says that, according to General von Ludendorff, Emperor William has been deeply impressed by the terrible devastation in the battle area.

"How glad we should be that our country has been spared such terrible things. We had succeeded in keeping the fighting beyond our frontiers? Because before the war we always urged the need of armaments."—Windom.

Precept and Practice

Kathleen had proved to be that a servant should be in regard to her duties; but unfortunately her energies never seemed to extend to keeping her face clean. Her mistress desired to tell her to wash it, but not wanting to offend a valued servant, she tried to be diplomatic.

"Do you know, Kathleen," she remarked, in a confidential manner, "that if you wash your face in hot soapy water it will make you beautiful."

"Sure, an' it's a wonder yer never tried it yerself, ma'am!" was Kathleen's surprising answer.—Vancouver Province.

ONE TOUCH OF PUTNAM'S STOPS CORN SORENESS

No need to walk on the edge of your sole to save a sore corn—Putnam's brings instant relief. Only it to a tender corn, and watch the corn shrivel and dry up. Absolutely painless. No matter how tough the corn is, you can peel it right off by using Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Costs but a quarter—why pay more for something not so good. Get Putnam's today.

Corn as Food and Fuel Was Greatly Valued in Fireplace

Food serves substantially the same purpose in the body as fuel for work. The carbohydrates, that is the sugars, starches and celluloses, can all be used as fuels and can all be used as fuels. The first products, water and carbon dioxide, are in both cases the same, and necessarily, therefore, the amount of energy produced is the same in the body as in the engine.

Corn is a good example of the equivalence of the two sources of energy. There are few better foods and no better fuels. I can remember the good old days in Kansas when we had corn to burn. It was both an economy and a luxury, for it cost less than coal and was preferable to either at any price. The long yellow ears, each wrapped in its own kindling, could be handled without cracking the fingers. Each kernel as it cracked sent out a blazing jet of oil and the coals left a fine bed of coals for the corn popper to be shaken over.

Drift wood and the pyrotechnic fuel they make now by soaking them in strontium and barium salts cannot compare with the old-fashioned corn fed fire in beauty and the power of evoking visions. Doubtless such luxury would be condemned as wicked nowadays, but those who have known the calorific value of corn would find it hard to abandon.

Police Tighten Grip on Enemy Sympathizers

A shaper is to be kept on Germans and Austrians in Alberta during the rest of the war, and the provincial police are taking steps in the direction of a more strict surveillance that will take all aliens, wherever and whoever they may be. The first move is the preparation of a new form for the foreign-born, which is about to go out to all the inspectors throughout the province and by being distributed to the several detachments. A draft of this form has been made, and will be printed at once, so that it may be set into use at the earliest possible date, making the work of keeping tabs on aliens hereafter a more thorough and satisfactory process. This Acting Supt. Bryn's intention to have all the policemen on the force increasingly alert in this direction, and it will be harder for German sympathizers to get by in future.

Reports have come in from several country points to the effect that there have been signs of pro-German leaning among some of the foreign-born sections. At the time the present offensive began at the front, a few weeks ago, there were indications that more or less pronounced sympathy with the Huns was in existence in some of the foreign-born sections. The plan provided for by the new form includes the listing of full data about each individual, including nationality, personal history, place of birth, and date of entry, if any, and the signature of the person who registers the individual. July Will See Call To Colors

OTTAWA, May 4.—Men of nineteen years old are to be called upon to register for military service. A proclamation to this effect will be issued shortly and, it is understood, will provide that the men must register before June. None of the men will, however, actually be called to the colors before July. The proclamation will apply to unmarried men and widowers without children born since October 13, 1917.

The purpose of stipulating that the call shall apply to men born since October 13, 1917, is apparently to make it include all those who were nineteen years of age and not twenty when the first call was called out on October 13, 1917.

The call will apply to those "who have attained the age of nineteen years and who were born on or after October 13, 1917," and are numbered so that the men will be required to register through the post offices as was the case when unmarried men and widowers between twenty and thirty-four years of age were called up on October 13 last.

The men will simply give their names and addresses and such details as will permit full registration to be effected. The call to the colors will be received by registered post from the district registrar.

Corporal David Kemp Returns From Overseas

Corporal David Kemp arrived by Sunday morning's train from overseas, and was indeed a surprise visitor at his home on that morning. For preparations were being made to receive him on the following morning. Corporal Kemp was one of the first Blairmoreites to enlist for service, and joined the Western Pioneers at Winnipeg in the fall of 1914. He has experienced quite a share of the campaign and bears marks of valiant service rendered. Although having spent a long period in hospital, he is looking fine and cheerful.

Anniversary Services

The twelfth anniversary of the Institutional church, Coleman, was held on Sunday last, May 5th. The Rev. W. F. Burns, M.A., of Lethbridge, conducted the services. Large audiences at both services enjoyed the splendid and powerful sermons of Mr. Burns. At the morning service the junior choir gave a selection entitled "A Volunteer for Jesus," which was well received. In the evening the senior choir opened the service with the anthem "Every hour we need Thee," and also sang another anthem, "The Lord is my strength." The music was most fitting and prepared the minds and hearts of the people for the service which followed. Mr. Burns expressed his delight and surprise at the fine work which was being done by Rev. D. K. Allan and the congregation, and conveyed the thanks of the Presbytery of Macleod to the congregation for the forward step it had taken in going up to self-support and paying a salary of $1300 a year.

On the Monday the anniversary supper was held in the church and it formed a happy social time. The Ladies' Auxiliary was able by the generosity of the people to put on an excellent supper, which every one enjoyed and praised. The programme was all local talent, and was a splendid sample of what yet remains in Coleman, notwithstanding the heavy drafts made upon it. All the items were good and were well received. The chair was occupied by the pastor, who briefly reviewed the history of the Church in The Pass. Mr. Burns again spoke and voiced the pleasure he had received through his visit, and hoped to be able to return some time in the summer to enjoy a little more the beauties of Coleman. Messrs. Cameron and Scott and the Captain of the Salvation Army also spoke. The anniversary celebrations were highly successful and the congregation goes forward into another year to do better than ever before.

Recommendations of Social Service League

The following were among the resolutions passed at the recent Alberta Social Service Convention:
"That the Annual Convention of the Alberta Social Service League would hereby express its commendation of the efforts put forth during the past year in the organization of the Provincial Police of Alberta, insofar as such efforts have been instrumental in the furtherance of law enforcement in this province, but would express its disappointment that those efforts have been inadequate for the satisfactory enforcement of the Liquor Act, this dissatisfaction being due, we believe:
1. To the insufficient number of plain clothes men being employed in the enforcement of the said Liquor Act.
2. To the fact that the methods approved by the Chairman of the Police Committee upon whom the responsibility of the police law is during the year are not such as can be expected to produce desired results.

Therefore we would suggest upon the Government of Alberta that an additional member shall be appointed upon the Police Committee of the Province who is in complete sympathy with the thorough enforcement of the Liquor Act, and who will have the specific responsibility of the enforcement of the said Act, and given ample facilities to accomplish the desired end.
"That the suggestion made that the Province of the Dominion of Canada each send representative speakers to Great Britain to assist the Prohibition Forces of that country in their fight we consider a very excellent one, and we recommend that this suggestion be approved by the Executive, suggesting that they act in correspondence with other Provinces and with the Prohibition Forces of Great Britain, and that the Executive have power to deal with the matter.

We recommend that this Convention approach the Provincial Government on the matter of erecting and keeping a home for female offenders in the Province, to which the inmates in our courts will be sent, rather than to be fined.
Resolved that in the interests of morality and the better protection of young women that the restaurants, cafeterias or cigar store or public eating house be allowed to employ women workers after 10 o'clock in the evening.

That whereas the present methods of the holding of Provincial Elections do not provide satisfactory safeguards against injustice, unfairness and corruption, therefore we request the Provincial Government to take such steps as will provide free voters' lists with the most complete and accurate revision of same by District Judges.

Whereas the Pool Rooms of this Province are now open to boys of 17 years, thus constituting a menace to the boys of High School age and standing, and whereas the moral atmosphere is generally unwholesome, "profanity and vicious conversation being allowed, and whereas the boys are in many cases associated with Pool Rooms, and minors who would otherwise be excluded from the Pool Rooms are exposed to its evil influence, be it resolved that we ask the Provincial Government that the better boys and pool rooms be separated, particularly in our cities and towns, and that the age limit at which boys may be permitted to frequent Pool Rooms be raised from 17 to 21 years.

That this Annual Convention of the Alberta Social Service League would place itself on record as recognizing the need of exact censorship in such matters as are inimical to the successful prosecution of the war, but would protest against the suppression by the Canadian Censor of statements of fact concerning the existing conditions in the environment of our Military Camps which are detrimental to the physical and moral welfare of our soldiers, believing that no good can be served by the present methods of trying to conceal these conditions, and we would respectfully petition the Federal Government to remove the ban upon the publication of such facts as "The Fiddlers" and "Defeat and Victory."

That whereas there is a rapidly developing spirit of gambling throughout the country, and that it is an alarming increase in the number of raffles, gaming contests, etc., conducted by commercial concerns and prominent organizations for raising money in the name of patriotic and religious, and whereas that spirit is exceedingly demoralizing to the children as well as to the adults, be it therefore resolved:
1. That the Dominion Government be memorialized so as to amend the law so as to make illegal raffles, gaming contests, and other gambling for commercial, religious, patriotic or other purpose.
2. Be it resolved that the law of gambling be amended so as to make illegal all gaming of money regardless of whether there is a take-off or not, and
3. Be it resolved that meanwhile we urge all friends of moral reform to repudiate and discourage such methods wherever used.

Experiments are being conducted on the Canadian government railways with a telephone apparatus that permits verbal messages to be transmitted to and from moving trains, and have met with highly gratifying results. Connection between the instrument and railway is made through the car wheels. Train speed is of no consequence, as satisfactory results have been attained with the train traveling at the speed of sixty miles an hour.

A British freight steamer, fresh from the yards of her builders, celebrated her maiden trans-Atlantic voyage by running down, and sinking a German U-boat off the Irish coast. The freighter was equipped with the latest anti-submarine devices, which proved very effective. The submarine came to the surface suddenly a short distance off the ship's bow and was caught by the British helicopter's quick work almost before the U-boat commander could puzzle out through the steamer's remarkable camouflage whether she was going or coming.

Lord Rhondda Cables: "We Cannot Achieve Victory Without Food."

"Canada Food Board, Ottawa"

"In these stern days it is inspiring to learn that Canada is tackling the food problem with redoubled energy. The terrific pressure on our military front makes it all the more imperative that those behind the line should strain every nerve to defeat the enemy's avowed object of destroying the British Empire."

"Germany hoped first to starve the Old Country by the submarine campaign and then to smash her land forces. She has failed to starve us and she will fail to smash us but we cannot achieve victory without food. There never was a time when it was more needed."

"The Canadian farmer and the Canadian farmhand have the opportunity to make an effective reply to the enemy's present onslaughts by bending their undivided energies to the increased production of those food supplies for which we depend to such vital extent upon your great Dominion."

(Signed) "RHONDDA"

London, April 10th

The Prime Minister of Canada, in a call to Greater Food Production, says: "The crisis is grave and urgent beyond possibility of exaggeration."

Our Allies are depending upon Canada to produce this year more cereals—especially Spring Wheat—and more meat—especially Pork.

The world shortage will inevitably continue for years after the war—with this continent the nearest source of supply for the 200,000,000 persons in Europe who will be clamoring for food.

Measures have been taken and plans have been formulated which, on the authority of the Director of Agricultural Labor, will provide help needed for harvest.

City and town people who cannot go on the farms are helping to feed themselves by growing their own vegetables, so that the farmers may grow more food for export.

The food crisis calls for the utmost effort by all the people of Canada, because, as Lord Rhondda says, Food is essential to Victory.

GERMANY HAD THE OPPORTUNITY FOR PRESERVING WORLD PEACE

Memoir of Prince Lichnowsky Shows That Germany Could Have Reached Agreement Acceptable to Great Britain, But Balked Efforts of Ambassador to London

Further sections of the memorandum which Prince Lichnowsky, German ambassador at London when the war began, wrote for the purpose of justifying his position to personal friends, are published by The Politician, organ of the Extreme Left and the Socialists. In the preceding sections Prince Lichnowsky described his efforts to secure a better understanding between Germany and Britain after his appointment as ambassador to London in 1912, and how they were thwarted because of the persistence of the German foreign office in backing up the Austrian view on Eastern questions, the following out of which he felt would lead to a collision with Russia and a world war.

The new portions of the memorandum deal principally with the negotiations between the Anglo-German colonial treaty. Prince Lichnowsky remarks at the outset that the good relations he had established in London had effected a noticeable improvement in Germany's relations with Britain. Sir Edward Grey, British foreign minister, devoted himself honestly to this rapprochement, says the prince, whereupon the British government, especially noticeable as regarded the colonial treaty and the Baghdad railway.

In 1906, says Prince Lichnowsky, Count von Helldorf-Wichow, the German minister to Great Britain, signed a secret agreement with the British government dividing the Portuguese colonies in Africa into economic spheres of interest between Germany and Great Britain, insuring the inviolability and independence of the Portuguese kingdom, and declaring the intention to support Portugal financially and economically.

The agreement, says the prince, therefore, he points out, did not clash with the old Anglo-Portuguese treaty dating from the sixteenth century. Nevertheless, at the instigation of the Marquis de Soveral, Portuguese minister to Great Britain, a new Anglo-Portuguese treaty, the so-called Windsor treaty, was signed in 1899, reinforcing the old treaty, the prince says forth.

The Anglo-German negotiations, which began before Prince Lichnowsky's arrival, were intended to secure the revision and improvement of the treaty of 1898, and, thanks to the accommodating attitude of the British government, Prince Lichnowsky says he was able to give a new treaty a form which was to the German wishes and interests.

Sir Edward Grey, continues Prince Lichnowsky, "did not show us good-will, and also in the main to further our colonial development, while Great Britain also wanted to lead the German development of power from the North Sea and Western Europe to the Atlantic and Africa. We do not grudge Germany her colonial development," a member of the cabinet said to me.

Prince Lichnowsky goes on to say that the treaty was practically in readiness in 1913, but that "very difficulties arose to prevent its signing and only a year later, shortly before the outbreak of the war, could I receive authority to conclude the treaty. It was, however," he adds, "never signed."

"Sir Edward Grey would only sign it on condition that the treaty be published, together with the 1898 and 1899 treaties. England has no secret treaties, and it was contrary to the existing principle to keep the treaty secret. Sir Edward could therefore conclude no treaty without publishing it."

Russian Aviators Are Poor Fighters

From "El'Asid," by Lieutenant Bert Hall, an American in the French Service

From one end of the eastern front to the other was chaos, everything and everybody. The French officers who had been sent over were doing what they could to bring about order, and in spots things were cleaned up, but in shape and organization to some extent. It made me want to laugh and weep at the same time. My work took me from a point about 100 miles south of Riga at the north, to the very end of the Roumanian line on the Black sea at the south. I had a chance to see what was going on everywhere, and I mixed with the officers and men of both sides. No system, no anything. They have eighty-eight national holidays in Russia, and the soldiers will fight on the kind of fighting they do on the other days is a joke.

In the Russian aviation corps things couldn't have been worse. I found that the men would fly only when they felt like it. They almost never passed over behind the German lines. The average Russian aviator aims to fly six hours per month. His work is two hundred rubles after his six hours he takes a good long rest. When I started in to really sound flying they thought I was a patriot and a fool. In fact, they didn't make any bones about telling me so. They let the German machines do what they pleased; they flew all around our lines and were never molested by the Russian planes.

Socially the Russian aviator is certainly a good fellow. They can all pass out as much as you want to, away a lot of drinks. I think they are the German beat in these social matters. No patriotism, no enthusiasm, and not too much courage. About all they did was to let the Russian planes drink champagne, play poker and "66," a German game. The men always say "tomorrow." They were very frank, almost child-like, in expressing their feelings to me.

"Oh, we would be just as well off under German Kultur as we are now." I have often heard things like that. Russia means nothing to the average Russian, although I met a few, a very few, patriots among them.

From the north I went down to the Caucasus front, and there I met the Grand Duke Nicholas. He is a remarkable man, a true patriot. He is fighting for Russia and is one of the few men who had any self-respect left in the world. He is worshipped by his men.

One instance, a thing which happened to me, will show you. I was describing what the fighting was like here. It happened when I brought down my first Boche out of the eastern front. I saw him over in our lines at about 1,500 feet altitude and I went after him. I supposed he was a German, and I was a patriot, as he did not pay any attention to me. I proceeded to shoot him down. When I returned I was very much surprised to find that my comrades did not approve of what I had done. They said:

"We have been here a long time and the Germans have never both come and drop bombs on us and may kill some of us."

Though that was a little too steep, so I moved on to another squadron, but I found that they were all about the same. The only one proposed for the Cross of St. George, a decoration for officers only, which was very rare in the Russian army, by the czar's order only four days before he abdicated. It was the last thing given out by the czar's order of the St. Vladimir, which is the Russian Legion d'Honneur.

Hindenburg's Fate in Balance

Is in No Position to Survive a Reverse on Any Front

Hindenburg is in no position to survive a reverse on any front. This is the main view of the Paris Debates as well as of the radical French press. The popular and democratic groups in the Reichstag have reached the conclusion that no peace of any kind is possible while the militarists dictate a policy to the chancellor.

This is the note of all comment in the Socialist Vorwarts. It has been a constant refrain since the people to the same effect from the memoirs of Bismarck. Soldiers, he said, do not understand the meaning of the administering and the negotiating. It is the business of German statesmen to make peace, not peace as the German soldiers for war.

When the Socialist group was censured and then suppressed after a series of these utterances, there was another uproar in the Reichstag. It was a scandalous scene, and the Socialist group, more explosive than most German shells.

Holding up a butcher boy, several London women made certain of a Sunday evening recently. They followed a butcher lad from a shop, surrounded him in a quiet road, and asked him to make a good meal for his family. The lad, however, was not a butcher, but a soldier, and he was not a soldier, but a butcher.

The lad, however, was not a butcher, but a soldier, and he was not a soldier, but a butcher.

Engineering Wonder

Suspension Bridge Built of Wire in British Columbia Has Collapsed

When the suspension bridge that Indians of Hagilet built across British Columbia recently collapsed the world lost one of its engineering wonders. With only the tools of the wilderness and no knowledge of the laws of stress, vibration, tensile strength and carrying load of various materials, the red men succeeded in building a bridge in the Canadian wilderness. The bridge was built of wire and was a masterpiece of engineering. It was built of wire and was a masterpiece of engineering.

It is learned unofficially that the R.N.W.M.P. is not to go out of existence. As soon as the present unit goes overseas, the work of recruiting the force to strength will be proceeded with and the famous riders of the plains will continue their special police duty.

Auto owners and the public should see the new vulcanizing
plant just installed by H. J.
Smallwood, a returned veteran, and now in operation. The outfit is one of the most modern and complete, and capable of handling anything that can be handled in the large cities. Already Mr. Smallwood appears to have established a good trade and reputation, and it is surprising the amount of work that is coming in in this line. At the time of our visit on Thursday, fully twenty sets of tires were being repaired, and customers are loud in their praise of the workmanship and the convenience and saving afforded by the new vul-caniser.
